An unknown blogger writing the secrets and gossips of the upper class adolescents living in Manhattan's Upper East Side. Serena van der Woodsen is girl who returned home after a year living away. During this year she meet Nate Archibald, the boyfriend of his best friend Blair Waldorf. Blair Waldorf was the "it girl" from the high school, she is the best and the most popular, so they became enemies. During this year of high school Serena meets Dan Humphrey, a boy who was in love with Serena since long time ago and he is from Brooklyn. During all the series this Blog called "Gossip Girl" tells us what is happening and narrates the things they do. They are very rich people who goes to parties and experiment new things. The fashion is like another character of the story, it is very important for understanding personalities and the context. Through the series it appears new characters and their relationships change a lot but the ending should not surprise you.

Gossip Girl is a two thousands film that captivated me. The setting is very realistic, I can imagine perfectly how are the places where these upper class adolescents live. The clothing transports me to these people from Manhattan in the years where the film was made. There is a dramatic voice-over which grips you. The performances of the thespians are incredible. I specially love the job of Leighton Meester I'm always believing what is she saying and doing. She is the enemy of the series but I can emphasise with her by how her feelings are represented. All these things create a very breath-taking atmosphere.

Gossip Girl is a worthwhile watch. While I was watching this series I couldn't think about nothing else, I felt like I was a fan of this blog called "Gossip Girl". I was waiting all the day to see the series as if a new gossip was going to be published. I highly recommend these series for these people who likes teen dramas but doesn't find something that really absorb them. It made me feel a lot of feeling I can't define it like sad or happy is all the feelings you could imagine.
